FIERCE AND FABULOUS

November 1999

by: Elizabeth J. Collett

Esther Nash has brought pizzazz to Park Slope, Brooklyn for the past two years by establishing her vintage boutiques, Sugar Daddy Boutique and Baby Doll Boutique. These two boutiques are as fun to shop in as they sound.

Esther Nash is a fashion designer, model and storeowner. These days, many of us are trying to establish a name for ourselves in the industry; Esther is already half way there!

Esther began modeling at the age of thirteen. At fourteen, while attending the High School of Art and Design, Esther proved to the industry that she was ready to take them on. As a freshman, Esther accomplished the difficult task of being chosen to show her designs on the runway, an honor not often given to lower classmen. This trend continued through her sophomore, junior and senior year. As if senior year isn't exciting enough for a high-school girl, Esther displayed her work that year at the Fashion Café, received the National Academy of Design Year scholarship and the Arts Student League Year scholarship. In 1998, Esther's designs were showcased at the Cardozo Charity Public Interest Stipend fashion show, which raised $13,000.
